Surgical and Non-Surgical Facial Rejuvenation Work Hand in Hand

Looking better, younger and more refreshed is a completely attainable goal. Facial rejuvenation is far superior now compared to even just a few years ago, enabling you to get the look you want. Your satisfaction with your appearance can be affected by time, aging or circumstance—whether that be congenital, from a trauma, or life events like weight loss or childbirth. All these affect your skin and appearance.

Instead of considering cosmetic surgery alone, adding non-surgical facial and skin rejuvenation treatments can take your surgical results to a whole new level. If the cost of cosmetic surgery is out of reach, much can be achieved with non-surgical facial sculpting alone.

Our looks are dependent on both the quantity and quality of skin on the face and neck. Skin 'Quantity' can be surgically addressed by Dr. Henry Wells, while Susan Wells, R.N. M.S., and her Skin Care Team can enhance and revitalize the 'Quality' of your skin. The skillful combination of procedures can make a profound difference in the way you look, and how you feel about yourself.

If you are seeking non-surgical options, they fall into these four basic categories.

Corrective Skin Therapy: Chemical Peels, Microdermabrasion and facials improve smoothness and skin texture by removing old skin, making your face feel smoother and returning it to its natural beauty and healthy glow. Micro-Needling is a breakthrough in skin care that causes the skin to kick into repair mode, making the skin naturally produce collagen and look more youthful.

Injectables: Dermal Fillers like Juvederm, Voluma or Sculptra are injected to add volume where it has been lost, then encourages the natural production of collagen. This provides subtle lift to return the plump 'apples' of the cheeks, and fills facial hollows and lines. This gives you smooth contours and a natural luminescence from lack of shadowing. Botox eliminates wrinkles and smooths crows feet, scowl lines and furrowed brows.

Lasers: Laser treatments, from Intense Pulsed Light to Fraxel, are used to repair, resurface and stimulate the body's own natural healing process for fresh, glowing, and healthy skin. Lasers are also used for Laser Hair Reduction and Vein Reduction, safe and effective for virtually any area of the body.

Physician Supervised and Prescription Skin Care: Our Skin Care Team can transform your skin using medical grade cleansers, moisturizers, retinols, sunscreens and growth factors. Your skin quality, texture and elasticity will improve, leaving a glowing appearance. You will be amazed at what the right products can do for you.
